Journalism / Media Internships for international students in Kortrijk/Brussels

OPTION I – SeaMe.tv internship (12 weeks or more)

SeaMe.tv - online video platform Internship

Love video editing, filming and social media? Want to be part of an international project aimed at video storytelling by and for people between 16 and 30? Eager to add an unusual experience to your CV so you have a good story to tell in future job interviews? Looking for a 12 week internship between now and June 2014?

Sea Media is an innovative project to develop an Internet Television Youth Service in the European Union’s Two 2 Seas region – Belgium, UK and Northern France. Howest University College is a partner along with De Kreun (BE), Le Grand Mix (FR), Focus-WTV (BE), The University of East Anglia (UK) and Epic Television Studios (UK).

Collaborating cross-border, young people will work with professional broadcasters and academics to create videos telling stories that matter to 16 through 30 year olds.

Those involved will be empowered to produce, edit and develop their own content.

Next to the platform, student exchange and skills exchange are the focus, offering opportunities to learn from sharing experience and best practices.

For an internship with SeaMedia, a combination of some of the below abilities are required.

- interested in video storytelling
- ability to edit videos alone and within a team
- willingness to do interviews
- willingness to work in an international environment
- flexible and willing to do some evening and weekend work
- ability to work in a team and meet deadlines

OPTION II – Combined internship FlandersNews.be (6 weeks) / SeaMe.tv (6 weeks or more)

SeaMe.tv - online video platform Internship

See above

FlandersNews.be - online video platform Internship

Flandersnews.be is the English language news website of the Flemish public broadcaster VRT. It carries all the big news stories in English and it is targeting the noteworthy group of foreigners that are living in Belgium permanently or temporary. Flandersnews.be is Belgium’s leading English language website for news and video reports.
The newsroom of Flandersnews.be is situated in the VRT-buildings in Brussels, the political heart of Belgium and Europe. The website focusses on a broad range of news: ‘citynews’ (Brussels, Antwerp, Ghent), political Belgian news, sports, culture, etc...

Interns will research and conduct interviews with people of interest in Flanders, including expats from their own home country, and prepare articles for publication on the website. Applicants are asked to submit an article consisting of an interview with an interesting figure from their own community that they believe would be suitable for publication on a website like flandersnews.be.

Good English writing skills required, notions of Dutch are a definite asset.

This part of the combined internship welcomes students for six weeks between January and June 2014.

Interested in one of these internship options? Further questions?

Contact details:

Brecht Vermeulen
Coordinator Internationalization Journalism Department
Howest University College (Campus RDR)
Renaat De Rudderlaan 6
8500 Kortrijk (BELGIUM)
Brecht.vermeulen@howest.be www.howest.be/english

Sarah Markewich
Project manager SeaMedia
sarah.markewich@howest.be

Follow us on Twitter: @SeaMedia2Seas
Like us on Facebook: SeaMedia
Watch us on YouTube: SeaMedia2Seas

Tune in to:

- www.SeaMe.tv
- www.flandersnews.be